The acquisition provides VOX with a first-mover advantage to execute non-brokered royalty transactions, and the majority of its 2019 and 2020 royalty transactions have been completed on this basis.

“The third quarter marked another quarter of tremendous growth and development for the Company,” noted Kyle Floyd, Chief Executive Officer. “Vox continues to grow in all key areas as a royalty company. Vox’s portfolio continues to build, with world-class operating partners and high-quality royalty assets. Vox received its first revenue from royalties during the quarter, and expects a significant ramp-up in revenue over the coming quarters and years. We are also pleased to announce that with a strong balance sheet and growing revenue the Company is well placed to commence a normal course issuer bid program. We believe the Company is significantly undervalued relative to our peers and other market valuation metrics. The Company will purchase shares for cancellation at market prices from time to time over the next twelve months.”
